DETAILED ACTION

Allowable Subject Matter

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

Lupien teaches a method and corresponding system for automated trading of securities. The system monitors and analyzes factors affecting trading decisions, including price and size quotations and financial ratios. Transactions are executed in real-time. Beckaert teaches a method and corresponding system for pricing securities that are modeled based on common input state variables between securities.

Neither Lupien nor Beckaert teach "determining the delay between said preceding transactions and a second instance of the most recent delayed transaction price of said security together with a delayed average price of said security, said delayed average price of said security corresponding to an average of a predetermined number of delayed transaction prices thereof, subtracting said most recent transaction price from said current average price to provide a current price difference and said delayed transaction price from said delayed average price to provide a delayed price difference, performing a correlation analysis based on said delay between said current price difference and said delayed price difference to produce a correlation coefficient therebetween, accumulating said correlation coefficients to produce a distribution thereof, converting said distribution to a normal distribution, displaying bracketing intervals corresponding to the various probabilities of said normal distribution, and effecting a securities trade order by selecting a price together with a selected one of said bracketing intervals".

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
